

The Association

The Public Health Association of Australia Inc (PHAA) is a non party-political organisation representing more than 40 public health related disciplines.

The Association makes a major contribution to public health as an advocate for public health issues primarily through submissions and by representation on boards, committees and consultative bodies. It acts as a forum for public health advancement and organises conferences and seminars to enhance the skills of public health practitioners.

PHAA has Branches in all States and Territories, has overseas members, and is affiliated with PHA New Zealand, the Australasian Epidemiological Association (AEA), Australian Health Promotion Association (AHPA) and the Australasian Faculty of Public Health Medicine (AFPHM).

PHAA has links with public health associations world-wide and is an active member of the World Federation of Public Health Associations.

Membership is open to any person who is supportive of the objects of the Association

Objectives

- (1) to advocate for the reduction of health inequalities across Australia and international communities;
- (2) to encourage research and promote knowledge relating to the problems, needs and development of public health;
- (3) to promote and provide a forum for the regular exchange of views and information;
- (4) to promote the development and education of workers in public health;
- (5) to promote, maintain and extend the interest of PHAA's Branches, Special Interest Groups and any affiliated organisations;
- (6) to promote excellence in public health practice; and,
- (7) to advocate the objects and policies of the Association.
